

ESF

- The regionalisation of the ESF in Baden-Württemberg has been a success. The ESF work groups should be absolutely maintained.
- The programme-specific indicators, financial data collection and legal requirements concerning the electronic data interchange should be reduced.
- Additional funds for transnational projects and approaches would be worthwhile.
- Not only labour market policies should be taken into account. Incentives for measures directed towards social inclusion would be desirable.
- Target group-neutral funding, i.e. project participation regardless of origin, should be maintained.

FEAD

- It would help to increase the amount of fundable direct material costs, e. g. for legal advice, interpreters and socio-pedagogical assistance.
- A more appropriate funding of project coordination and management would be desirable.
- The particular needs of families have to be taken into account. Accordingly, children aged between 6 and 16 should not be excluded from being referred to existing professional counselling services.

- Counselling should also be open for immigrants who already are employed if there is a given precarious situation such as addiction, excessive debts or lack of language skills.
- Moreover, it would be desirable to also promote group offerings and similar concepts in order to enhance the use of the target group potentials.

AMIF

- The amount of required signatures of migrants and the necessary documents, which have to be handed in, hamper the confidence-building. Thus, a reduction to a reasonable level would be useful.
- Trauma care for refugees should be continued, even after a change in the residence permit.
- AMIF Union actions should be opened for municipalities and civil society organisations, as well.
- The requirement to hand in applications as hard copies and additionally in digital form is an unnecessary bureaucratic burden.
- It is desirable to introduce the implementation of a two-stage selection process. Thus, the effort in case of an unsuccessful application could be reduced.
